AGED VETERAN DIES.

Frank Duke, Soldier in Seminole and Civil War Passes Away.

Lake City, Dec. 12.—Yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of his nephew, D. B. Duke, in this city, occurred the death of Mr. Frank Duke, within five years of being four score years of age. He was one of the few surviving veterans of the Seminole Indian wars of Florida and was also a veteran of the civil war, although his wounds received in the first conflict prevented his regular service, as a member of Quincy Stuart's cavalry, in the second. Deceased was a native of Columbia, S. C., born there May 20, 1832, making him 75 years of age at his death. He came to Florida when quite a young man and has resided in Columbia county since, living near Fort White for a time, and the latter part of his life for nine years with his nephew, D. B. Duke.

To Be Made to Prohibit. (Savannah News.)

On Tuesday Senator Clay introduced 2 bills into the senate to make it unlawful to ship intoxicating liquors into prohibition states. Bills of a like character have been introduced into the House. Of course this isn't the first time that bills to make prohibition prohibit have been introduced into Congress and it is by no means certain that one will become a law. In the first place there seems to be some doubt as to whether or not they are constitutional, and in the second place the liquor interests are aroused, and will put forth every possible effort to defeat them. The prohibition sentiment is getting too strong to please distillers, brewers and liquor dealers. They are beginning to be alarmed by the progress that prohibition is making.

As long as prohibition was confined to counties and towns, liquor and beer men didn't trouble themselves much about it, because the liquor went into the prohibition counties to about as great an extent as it did before they became "dry," but now when it is proposed to prevent the shipment of beer and whiskey into those counties they begin to feel that it is time to make a fight.

And the prohibitionists are ready for the contest. They have gained so much ground within the last year or two, and the prohibition sentiment is spreading so rapidly, that they know that Congressmen will listen to them—that they will have to listen to them if they want to retain their places in Congress. Hence the contest will not be a one sided one by any means. Heretofore Congressmen have felt that they could afford to ignore the prohibitionists for the reason that they cut but little figure in elections. The liquor men had by far the greater influence in politics. Now the situation has greatly changed. In a great many states the prohibitionists exercise a tremendous influence in politics and the man who wants to get into or remain in public life must take them into account.

The chance for the passage of a bill preventing the shipment of intoxicants into prohibition counties is pretty good, even though there is ground for doubting the constitutionality of such a measure. The courts have to settle a good many questions growing out of legislation and Congress may let them settle this question.

TO LIMIT INJUNCTION POWER

Is Purpose of Bill Introduced in House by Clayton of Alabama.

Washington, Dec. 12.—A bill designed to restrain United States circuit and district judges from issuing temporary injunctions against the operation of state laws, was introduced in the house today by Representative Clayton of Alabama. The bill provides that it shall be unlawful for any circuit or district court, or any circuit or district judge of the United States, to issue any injunction restraining the prosecution of state law, except in cases in which the final trial has been had, or final decree of judgment has been rendered declaring such state law to be in violation of the constitution, laws or treaties of the United States. The second provision of the bill particularizes that no injunction shall issue against any state officer or other person in any case except where final judgment has been rendered holding the state law to be contrary to the constitution, laws or treaties of the United States.

Bad
Sign

Irregularity is bad in every department of life, in meals, in sleeping hours, but especially when it is a question of womanly habit. Not only is it a sign of female disease, but, unless cured, it will cause dangerous troubles, because of the poisons thus allowed to remain in the system.
If you suffer in this way, get a bottle of

Wine of Cardui

Mrs. Lucinda Johnson, of Fish Creek, Wis., writes: "I suffered for fourteen (14) years with irregularity, causing great pain. At last I tried Cardui, and now I am cured." At all druggists, in $1 bottles.
